July 22

Milwaukee Women Speak Out for Health Care Reform, Milwaukee

5:30-8:30 PM, Marcus Center for the Performing Arts, 929 N. Water St. Women are often the arrangers of health care for our entire families. So, we are inviting women to share stories of how they and their family members have struggled with the current system, and what needs to change! Grassroots women will share their personal stories about how America's health system is failing them and their families. Health policy experts will engage with participants to link these stories to needed policy reforms and compile an action agenda for change. State Representative Tamara Grigsby and Lt. Governor Barbara Lawton have been invited to serve as the co-emcees for the evening. Fee: free, but pre-registration is required. Sponsored by the WI Alliance for Women's Health.
